How to get there -

A series of gentle easy access walks with a picnic and children's play area.

- A. From the car park, take the surfaced path to the cafeteria kiosk. Turn to face the park and open grassland, indicated by the green arrow on the post.

Walk ahead and continue through the trees to pass to the left of the fallen tree trunks. Continue ahead again into open grassland to pass to the left of the two lone standing tree trunks.

- B. Continue ahead towards the trees to locate another green arrow under a tree to the left of the bench.
- C. This way marker indicates a path leading through the trees to an accessible gate.
- D. Go through the gate to reach the bridleway. Continue ahead bearing to the right towards a house, to reach a small pond and a low log seat. Here you can rest awhile before retracing your steps back to the car park.

Points of interest

1. Camer Country Park was developed from an estate sold to Strood Rural District Council for the sum of £9,750 in 1967 following the death of the last occupier of the estate, Kate Smith-Masters.
2. The house from the original estate can be seen through the trees looking in a northerly direction after walking approximately 1/4 mile into the park from the café.
3. The woodland area has been allowed to mature naturally providing a haven for wildlife.

Tree enthusiasts can pick up a free copy of the 'Camer Park Tree Trail' leaflet from the cafeteria kiosk.
